indicated he expected only a few individuals to participate and felt certain that they would not attempt to enter the Consulate.

Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation observed a group of individuals, consisting of both men and women assemble on the sidewalk immediately in front of 215 Market Street at approximately 3:00 p.m. on March 18, 1973. These individuals assumed a sitting position on carpets and blankets they had bought with them. There was no chanting and only three or four posters were in evidence. The area where the demonstrators were seated was separated by a fence from the entrance to 215 Market Street. This fence remained following recent construction work that had been accomplished in the area. One or two individuals placed themselves near the doorway of the building and offered to passers-by leaflets.

A typical leaflet among those being distributed appears as follows:

FREE

BABA

The entire mankind of this universe constitutes one singular people. The whole humanity is bound in fraternity; those who are apt to remain oblivious of this very simple truth . . . those who are prone to distort it . . . are the deadliest enemies of humanity. Today's mankind should identify these foes fully well and build up a healthy human society totally neglecting all obstacles and difficulties.

It must be borne in mind that so long as magnificent, healthy and universalistic human society is not well established, man's culture and civilization, his sacrifice, service, and spiritual endeavor shall not be able to carry any worth whatsoever.

SHRII SHRII ANANDAMURTI

Called BABA By His Followers

Spiritual leader and social reformer, has been imprisoned without bail for the last 14 months on charges of murder and conspiracy. In December the murder charges were dropped. The court battle continues . . . and still bail is denied.

On February 12th, 1973, Shrii Shrii Anandamurti was poisoned in Bankepur Jail, in Patna, India.

Since then, his doctors have not been allowed to see him.

He teaches that we are all children of God and that we are truly one common humanity of brothers and sisters. He teaches that social and economic oppression have no place on our planet.

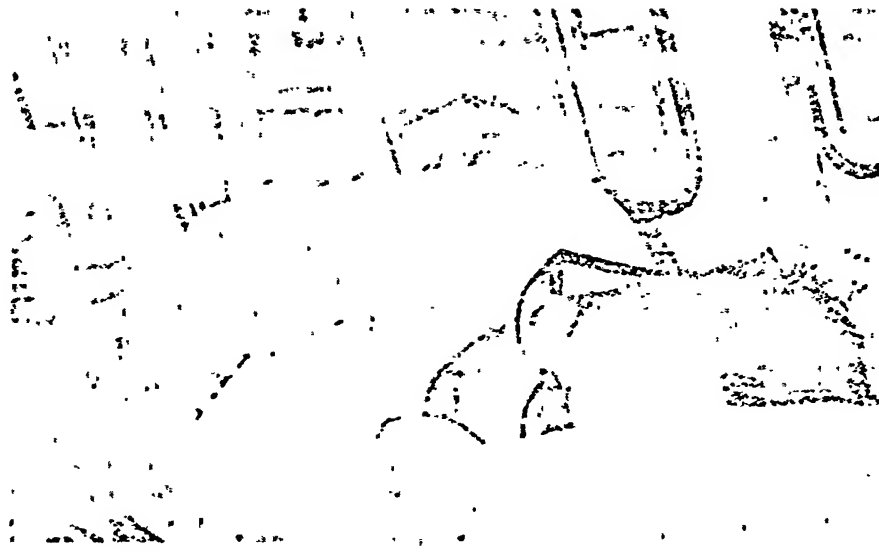

His crime is that he dared to speak out.

Immediately before his poisoning, Shirii Shirii Anandamurti was isolated from fellow prisoners and from visitors. When he was allowed visitors, he related the incident of the poisoning and requested that he be allowed to see his personal doctor. This was denied, and no care was given.

His pain is severe, his vision blurred. His physical health even before this incident had deteriorated due to the conditions of the Patna jail. He had received neither proper food nor the opportunity for much-needed exercise. His windowless cell was without a fan throughout the summer, at which time the temperature outside rose as high as 130 degrees.

He has not been allowed to be treated by his physician to this date.

He must be hospitalized immediately and must receive proper medical attention if he is to regain his good health.

IN NEED OF MEDICAL ATTENTION

Shrii Shrii Anandamurti's mission is simply one of love of humanity. He asks his followers to look upon every living creature with an attitude of love and sympathy, and realizing the essential unity of all beings to serve mankind as children of one spirit. His message is similar to that of other great humanists.

He lies poisoned in a jail in India.

If Shrii Shrii Anandamurti preaches only love and brotherhood, why is he being persecuted?

- ... he opposes intolerance, pettiness, and exploitation
- ... he has spoken out against abuses of power and money
- ... his social service has been more effective than many government programs
- ... his call to morality is reaching many influential persons
- ... he will not compromise his ideals to the pressure of vested interests
- ... he will not keep silent to save himself

SERVICE TO SUFFERING HUMANITY IS SERVICE TO GOD

Shrii Shrii Anandamurti

Throughout the world his followers are actualizing his mission and teaching by various volunteer services:

- ... hundreds of orphanages, schools, and children's homes established
- ... disaster relief to hundreds of thousands in Bangladesh, India, The Philippines, and currently in Nicaragua
- ... daycare centers
- ... senior citizen centers
- ... drug abuse programs

His volunteers are servants to humanity, following his example.

WE, HIS FOLLOWERS, OVER TWO MILLION IN 35 COUNTRIES AND IN EVERY STATE IN AMERICA ASK YOU TO SPEAK OUT WITH THE VOICE OF LOVE AND COMPASSION TO OVERCOME THIS INHUMAN PERSECUTION.

There are various means through which this persecution may be protested. Listed below are the names and addresses of government officials in India to whom you can voice your concern.

Indira Gandhi
Prime Minister of India
New Delhi, India

D. Prasad Rai
Chief Minister of Bihar State
Patna, India

Nityanand Kanungo
Office of Governor of Bihar State
Patna, India

Shrii K. V. Giri
President of India
Office of President of Republic
New Delhi, India

Please bring whatever influence and pressure you may command to this situation.

DEMAND:

- ... an end to the persecution of Shirii Shirii Anandamurti
- ... immediate and quality medical attention
- ... immediate hospitalization if necessary
- ... release from Bankepur Jail

Do not let his poisoners have another opportunity.

The persecution of advanced thinkers is not unknown to the annals of history. Throughout the ages such thinkers as Socrates, Galileo, Buddha, Krishna, Jesus, Mohammed, Martin Luther King, and countless others have suffered for their uncompromising ideals.

ANANDA MARGA YOGA SOCIETY
INTERNAL SECURITY - INDIA

On August 17, 1973, a confidential informant who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the Ananda Marga Yoga Society planned to conduct a three day demonstration in Washington, D. C. (WDC) to protest the inhumane treatment given to Shrii Shrii Anandamurti, who was confined in an Indian prison. The informant stated that the demonstration was to begin on August 17, 1973, at 10:30 a.m. at the Elipse and proceed to the vicinity of the Indian Embassy for a demonstration between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. During the hours of 2:00 to 6:00 p.m., individuals were to demonstrate at the Indian Embassy and the offices of Air India, 1011 Connecticut Avenue, N.W. Four hundred persons were expected to participate in the planned demonstration.

Continuing, the informant advised that on August 18, 1973, the group intended to demonstrate all day in the form of a street theater, a visit to Children's Hospital and a visit to the "RAP Office" at 1417 U Street, N.W.

On August 19, 1973, the group intended to conduct a street theater during the morning hours and to continue their protest on the Elipse during the hours of 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. on that date.

Shrii Shrii Anandamurti has been publicly identified as the head of the Ananda Marga Yoga Society and has been charged with conspiracy in the slayings of six of his former disciples. He is in prison in India on that charge.

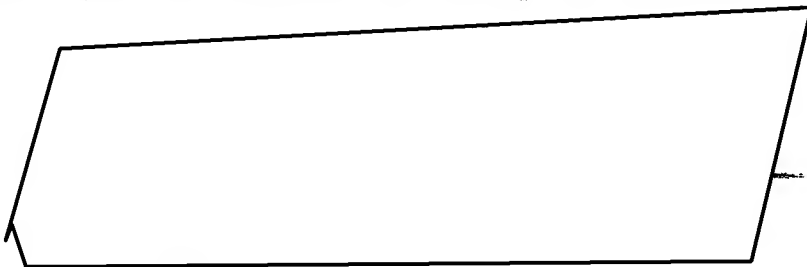

On September 6, 1973, a representative of the Metropolitan Police Department (MPD) advised that the reports of that department indicate that between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. on August 17, 1973, 80 members

Indian Students 'mentally ill'

LUCKNOW: About one-third of the students in India are "mentally ill". This shocking revelation was based on a survey conducted in an Indian University recently.

The survey, claimed to be the first of its kind in India, was conducted by Dr. B. B. Sethi, Mrs. V. Srivastava, and Mr. K. L. Tandon of the Department of Psychiatry at the King George's Medical College here. It covered 945 students of whom 318 were found to be "emotionally ill."

Out of the 318, 169 students were clinically interviewed and 146 of them were found to be suffering from some form of mental illness. Lack of proper hostel facilities and fear of unemployment were the major causes of dissatisfaction among the university students who showed emotional disorder.

Hitendra Desai joins Congress

AHMEDABAD: A former Chief Minister of Gujarat who was also a prominent Congress member has joined the Congress Party, along with some of his followers.

Hitendra Desai, in a statement to the Press, said that he had taken the decision not with any selfish motive. He said he was inspired by the new situation that had arisen in the country.

Among the leaders who joined the Congress along with him was Chaganbhai, vice president of the Gujarat Pradesh Congress (G).

4 holidays a year

BOMBAY: The number of holidays in government offices in Maharashtra has been reduced from the present 115 days to 56 days. This means that, other than Sundays, there will be only four paid holidays. They are: Independence Day, Republic Day, Mahatma Gandhi's birthday, and May 1.

Crusading journalist

of services of editors or to order reinstatement or to pass any enforceable orders for the grant of salary, wages, gratuity or other benefits accorded on the termination of services.

Mr. Verghese is one of India's most respected editors. He has by now earned international recognition for efficiency, integrity and boldness.

He ran a crusade against the governments at the Centre and various States, who were responsible for India's present economic ruin. During his tenure The Hindustan Times exposed many a politician.

The paper came out with a startling disclosure after the last Uttar Pradesh election. Indira Gandhi had conducted a whirlwind tour of the State. In every State place she visited she had a foundation stone for an ambitious project. An enterprising reporter of The Hindustan Times investigated and found out that she had also laid foundation stones for the very same projects on the eve of the previous election.

NEW DELHI: "All the religious, clasp and about Anand Marg was 'only a means to allure the credulous and to provide a cover for a sinister conspiracy aided and abetted by some Indian foreign forces,' says a former Acharya and Kapalik who revolted and left the Marg.

Narrating 'the story of Anand Marg', in the latest issue of Secular Democracy, Nawal Kishore who had been associated with the Marg for 14 years till 1971 has said the ultimate aim of the now-banned organisation was to capture power in the country, through violent means, if necessary.

The former Marg associate speaks how the organisation grew from scratch, how money used to pour in liberally from Indian and foreign sources, and how a revolutionary group was formed to carry out assassinations of VIPs. Nawal Kishore says of the infiltration of the Anand Marg into the services, especially the police service, that it had 'laid the trap' of a well-designed plan to subvert legally elected Government."

The Marg supporters in the department of police, Central Excise, Income Tax, Sales Tax and officials in certain other departments were pressed into a fund-collecting mission. "Moving to the maximum their official position, these supporters collected huge amounts of money."

Grenade Attack On Chief Justice

Two of the five persons charged in the Central Bureau of Investigation in connection with the grenade attack on the Chief Justice of India, Mr. Ajit Nath Ray, on August 24, are alleged to be members of the Anand Marg. Santoshchand Avadhoot, one of them, was earlier posted in the Proutist Forum of India, a frontal organisation of the Anand Marg in Delhi. Prout stands for "Progressive Utilization Theory." It is the socio-economic and political philosophy given by Prabhat Ranjan Sarkar alias Anand Marg, the guru of Anand Marg. The social order, according to the Prout philosophy, could be set up by resorting to violent means, if necessary.

P. R. Sarkar was arrested on December 23, 1971 along with others in connection with the murder of six former Margis. The other four persons charged in the grenade attack case are: Avadhoot, Sudevanand, another member of the Marg, Vikram alias Jadhav Das, Ram Janam Dwivedi alias Rajan Dwivedi and Ram Nagina Prasad.

Expedition to Jakarta

BOMBAY: The 'Explorers' Club of India hopes to launch its most ambitious expedition in November when three professional sailors will try to reach Jakarta and Sabu, covering a distance of 10,000 nautical miles in a sail boat.

The boat will be about 12 meters long and four meters wide. It is now under construction in a Calcutta dockyard.

It will be christened 'Chand Sankar' and taken to Visakhapatnam this month for the training of the crew. The Indian Navy is providing the necessary equipment for the expedition. The actual voyage will start from Palur in Orissa.

Many in India see in this voyage a reenactment of what our ancestors did centuries ago. People from Kalinga, Andhra, Chola and Pandya coast had gone to South East Asian islands in those days with religion, philosophy and culture (art, sculpture and architecture).

Fish drown fisher

BILASPUR (M.P.): Three fish managed to drown a fisherman here recently. The fisherman had dozed off after casting his net into a tank near Khonsara railway station, tying the net's rope to one of his legs.

He was dragged into the tank by three big fish, weighing 35 kg., 17kg., and 15 kg., while trying to escape from net.

The fisherman's floating body and his live catch were recovered by the police later on.

There are more tigers in Sunderbans now

CALCUTTA: Tiger population in the Sunderbans preserve is increasing, say wild life experts. For the first time they have seen cubs in the sanctuary.

The Sunderbans suffers from two handicaps which the other eight sanctuaries in the country don't. Dearth of sweet water streams is one. The other is the high salinity of the soil which is the result of the scores of creeks in the sanctuary being linked with the sea. Salinity wipes out grass on which deer and other prey animals feed. Tigers are forced to drink salt water which makes them more ferocious.

Owing to the shortage of prey animals tigers eat fish and crabs which seldom satisfy their hunger. So they often kill woodcutters and fishermen who enter the forests.

Assassins of Mrs. Jain jailed for life

NEW DELHI: An eminent eye surgeon of this city had planned to do away with his wife, so he could live happily ever after with his paramour.

The wife was done away with, all right. But the rest of his plan did not materialize. He and his paramour are now in jail undergoing life imprisonment. So are the other five accomplices in the crime.

The sensational Mrs. Jain murder case was disposed of by the Delhi Sessions Court in August. Ever since the murder took place on December 4, 1973, it has been a hotly debated subject in the capital.

Judge J. S. Siddhu's verdict says that Vidya Jain was stabbed as many as 14 times by two assassin brothers hired by her husband for Rs.25,000. While his wife was being subjected to this brutal attack on the left side of the car, Jain was calmly standing on the right side, says the judgement.

About three hours and 15 minutes after the incident Jain made a report to the police that two men had killed his wife and escaped after threatening him with a revolver. The judgement described the report as a clever combination of candor and concealment.

Chandresh Sharma, "the woman behind this conspiracy and murder", was Dr. Jain's secretary. She became a widow at the age of 20 in 1969. She remarried in 1971, but her first marital relationship with Jain prompted her to seek judicial separation from her husband.

The "dalliance" between the two continued since then until that fateful evening of December 4, 1973.

Appeal admitted

It was reported last month that an appeal filed by Jain against her conviction had already been admitted by a division bench of the Delhi High Court.

Jain contended in his appeal that the intimacy between him and Chandresh Sharma was about six years old and as such he was having the best of both worlds and could have no occasion to think of killing his wife. He further contended that it should have been appreciated a wife was important for the social standing of a renowned professional and so the idea of killing her could never enter his mind.

Gen. Niazi dismissed

NEW DELHI: Lt. Gen. A. A. K. Niazi has been dismissed from the Pakistan Army with effect from July 3.

He led his country's armed forces which surrendered to the Indian Army in December, 1971 that resulted in the liberation of Bangladesh from Pakistan. The Pakistan Government gazette which announced his dismissal last month in Islamabad did not give any reason for it.

Lt. Gen. Niazi was in the last batch of the prisoners of war released by India last year.

Nine days after this Rawalpindi reported the retirement of two more generals and three colonels for "unspecified reasons". Six other officers were also released.

Goans irate over idols

PANAJI: The 3,000-strong population of Pat village, in Satali Taluka, are angry with Goa Archives. The archives authorities had, earlier this year, removed from their village stone images of gods and goddesses which they had been worshipping since birth. Six age-old statues are now languishing at the Velpol police station here.

The villagers insist that the Government should bear the cost of Prasthapana (reinstatement of the images). The villagers said that the images had been stolen by somebody. The matter went up to the Law Minister, who represents Satali in the Goa Assembly. The Minister tried to pacify the villagers, but in vain.

They are now trying to seek the intervention of Chief Minister Shashikala Kakodkar.

First woman pilot of IA

NEW DELHI: Durga Banerjee has the distinction of being the first Indian woman to command an aircraft. She is a Captain now on one of Indian Airlines' Fokker Friendship aircraft.

Before joining Indian Airlines in 1966 Mrs Banerjee worked with Air Survey and Airways India Ltd., flying freighter and passenger DC 3s. She has 12,000 hours of flying to her credit, but has yet to learn a driving.

ANANDA MARG

The Ananda Marga Yoga Society is self-described as a group whose members attempt, through self-discipline and meditation, to find ecstasy and inner peace. The Society claims to have 80 branches in the United States.

The Society has engaged in demonstrations in Washington, D. C., and San Francisco, California, in 1972 and 1973. The demonstrations occurred at the Indian Embassy, Indian Consulate, and the White House. The stated purpose of these demonstrations was to protest the jailing of the Society's spiritual leader, Shrii Shrii Anandamurti by the Indian Government in 1971. Anandamurti was arrested by the Indian Government for the murder of six people.

These demonstrations were conducted in a law abiding and peaceful manner; however, a demonstration at the Indian Embassy on April 23, 1973, resulted in the arrest of two demonstrators by the Executive Protective Service for the "Depositing of Trash in a Public Place." The demonstrators were attempting to deliver to the Indian Ambassador the ashes of a monk who had immolated himself. In the process, the container of ashes was dropped and broke on the Embassy steps.

In 1973, the Society published a monthly magazine entitled "Sadvipra." It is not known if this magazine is still being published.

Subject: Ananda Marga.

The religious organization "Anānda Marga", which has been banned in India, has followers not only in India, but also in the Philippines, California, London and Amsterdam. The religious views of these group go to the length of considering violence a lawful means of securing the desired objects in certain cases.

Since a couple of years the leader of this organization, called "Papa" has been in prison in India. Shortly after his imprisonment, but also recently on 15 December 1975, his followers demonstrated against this detention before the chancellery of India in The Hague.

Last year an adherent of Ananda Marga, inflamed as a result of meditation, reportedly committed an armed raid on the embassy of India in London.

ANANDA MARGI

Dr. [] Veterans Administration Hospital, Building 4-Room C-5, Sepulveda, California, furnished the following information on January 26, 1976:

Dr. [] who has a PhD degree in the field of pharmacology, visited India in 1974. During her stay there of approximately two months duration she heard of Dr. []
[] who was connected with the Bio-Engineering Department of the India Institute of Technology (IIT) in Madras, India, and to whom she was referred in relation to her interest in Oriental meditation. She went to Madras and visited [] whom she found to be a Hindu in his early forties who was educated in England.

Dr. [] had heard that [] had a guru who was a "terrorist", that (according to gossip) the bodies of sixteen murdered devotees had been found in his guru's ashram, and that no one who belonged to his organization was permitted to leave it alive. When she met [] he told her "My guru, my swami, is the best; but he's in jail." He indicated the correct number of bodies discovered in his guru's ashram was six not sixteen. (Dr. [] does not recall the guru's name.)

b6
b7c

According to [], he was a member of the guru's organization which was named Ananda Margi (or Marga, or Marg').
He invited Dr. [] to a meeting in his apartment on the IIT campus, at which a guru who was in effect "second in command" of the Ananda Margi was present and during which [] high-pressured members of the IIT staff to join the organization.
In an attempt to interest Dr. [] in it, [] loaned her a copy of an unpublished book that set forth the organization's aims. From a perusal of the book and from remarks of [] concerning the organization, Dr. [] concluded that although there was no use of the words assassination or murder - only "killing", the Ananda Margi and [] personally advocated violence and murder to gain political power - presumably only in India. Dr. [] of course, declined to have anything to do with it. In 1974 Dr. [] heard that cells of the Ananda Margi existed in the United States.

In 1975, while again in India, Dr. [] learned that the Indian Government had outlawed the Ananda Margi and claimed to have broken it up. As recently as December (1975) she heard there was a warrant outstanding for [] arrest. She also heard that [] whose doctorate is in electronics or engineering and who is a consultant in bio-medical engineering to the United States Air Force (USAF), was in the United States. Friends in India suggested that she notify the authorities in the United States of the above information concerning []

Since Dr. [] return to the United States in January, 1976, she has received two letters from [] who was at the Ames "Air Force Base" (sic), believed to be at Moffett Field, California: (USAF "Information" advised there is an Ames Research Center at the Moffett Naval Air Station in Sunnyvale, California.) Dr. [] did not reply to these letters, which concerned a projected book [] was preparing to which he wished her to contribute. [] who had been in the United States eight months or more, was to return soon to India and by now may have already done so.

It is understood that [] has worked for the USAF in the past at Rochester, New York. His wife, whose name is not known to Dr. [], is of []

The following article, captioned as below, appeared on pages A-1 and A-14 of the April 30, 1973 edition of "The Washington Post," a daily newspaper published at Washington, D.C.:

Ananda Marga

India Sees Threat in Yoga Sect Noted for Good Works in U.S.

By Lewis M. Simons

Washington Post Foreign Service

NEW DELHI, April 28—To Americans, the Ananda Marga Yoga Society sounds about as harmless as Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band. American college kids standing on their heads, eating wheat germ, chanting "om, om om."

But in India, Ananda Marga is bearded monks in saffron robes, daggers at their hips, their guru jailed in connection with the murders of six defectors. Here, the government—which Ananda Marga views as corrupt and immoral—regards it in turn as a fascist group committed to ousting the government and installing its own system of highly disciplined regulations.

Ananda Marga means "Path of Bliss." Eight million people throughout the world have been initiated into the group. In India, they run 400 schools, soup kitchens, bring relief to Bangladesh refugees and spiritual succor to the down-

In the United States, followers teach self-respect in black ghettos and in prisons. In Nicaragua, they rebuild houses destroyed by the Managua earthquake, provide food, teach hygiene.

"Violence and dictatorship are the cornerstone of the Ananda Marga philosophy," says India's home minister, Uma Shankar Dixit. "This is an organization which wants to lead the country to fascism."

"The basis of Ananda Marga is spiritualism," says Olaf Oftedal, a young American devotee. "But the distinction between Ananda Marga and other Indian-based spiritual groups in the United States is that we go beyond meditation and singing. We try to help oppressed people. We're activists."

Oftedal, 23, came to India last week as a "public relations coordinator" working for the release of the founder and head of Ananda Marga, Prabhat Ranjan Sarkar, known to his followers as Sri Shri Anandamurti.

Anandamurti, "Bliss personified," a 55-year-old former railway accounts clerk, founded Ananda Marga in 1933. He has been imprisoned since Dec. 29, 1971, on conspiracy charges in the slayings of six of his former disciples.

Sarkar was arrested in the eastern state of Bihar after his wife and several other followers went to the police. In addition to charging him with the murders, Mrs. Sarkar said her husband engaged in "bizarre" practices, including forcing his followers into homosexual acts "after convincing them they had been women their former lives."

"We have no doubt that she eventually will deny her public statements," says Oftedal. "She was coerced. She signed statements in English, and she doesn't understand English."

ANANDA MARGA

Sarkar, however, speaks English, 20 Indian tongues and several other languages, including Norwegian, says Oftedal. The blond-haired American devotee is the son of a Norwegian diplomat, formerly an ambassador to Canada, and an American mother.

He says most of the 20,000 members of the U.S. branch, which has its headquarters in Wichita, Kan., are white, clean-cut, middle-class and college-educated, like himself.

"I graduated from Harvard summa cum laude," Oftedal says. "But I and the Harvard intellectuals I know are nothing in comparison with Baba.

Baba, an affectionate term meaning "Papa," is "a giant of intelligence, morality and strength," he says.

"Baba is the incarnation of God," a bearded monk screamed earlier this week, his curly black hair streaming down the back of his saffron costume. "Baba alone is God."

Chanting in Bengali, 500 hundred young followers took up the cry. They were demonstrating in New Delhi for the release of Sarkar.

On the high platform in front of the crowd was a small earthenware pot, said to contain the ashes of a monk who had burned himself to death earlier this month out of frustration over Sarkar's detention.

Rudrananda Avadhut, a tall, handsome monk wearing blue-tinted glasses, told the crowd that another immolation was imminent.

Breaking into an English translation of his speech, for the benefit of foreign correspondents, he said that a registered letter had been sent earlier in the day to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and President V.V. Giri, warning that if they would not meet with Ananda Marga representatives tragedy would follow.

Neither the prime minister nor the president responded. The immolation took place the next day inside an ancient stone fort. It was carried out suddenly and in secrecy from the police, but not from the news media.

News coverage is extremely important to Ananda Marga. Oftedal and his Indian public relations counterpart, Acharya Nirmohananda, carry briefcases crammed with press handouts, background information, and clippings.

Before last week's demonstration concluded, it evolved into what Indians—past masters of every form of protest—term "courting arrest." A few hundred demonstrators with paper swastika emblems pinned to their shirts broke police cordons around the meeting ground and were shoved into waiting vans. But not before the police discharged tear gas cylinders and cracked some heads with bamboo staves.

"Look, look. You gentlemen of the press have seen the police brutality," cried Nirmohananda. "You, Mr. Lal, you have seen their vicious, mad-dog attacks. Tell the world how we are persecuted."

The next day, Tuesday, Surrender M. Lal, a Columbia Broadcasting System cameraman, tried to tell the world. Accompanied by Patricia Duregne de Launaguet, a young French woman who works as a sound technician, Lal filmed the immolation. Lal's film and some still pictures taken by a photographer hired by Ananda Marga are the only complete records of the burning.

The police moved swiftly. They immediately arrested two monks present at the immolation and charged them with criminal conspiracy. Lal and Miss de Launaguet were arrested that night at Bombay airport, where they had fled from Delhi. They were charged with conspiracy. The police seized a roll of 16-mm. color film from Lal. Whether it is the film of the immolation will not be known until it is processed, something which cannot be done in India.

Tuesday night and Wednesday, the police staged raids at Ananda Marga's New Delhi headquarters and elsewhere. They arrested 24 monks and other persons, including a physician connected with the group.

The physician, Dr. Subash

Rana, is one of a large number of middle-class and wealthy Indians who are attracted to Ananda Marga's potentially anti-Communist philosophy. The organization has also drawn a high proportion of senior government officials, enough to cause the government to attempt outlawing Ananda Marga and, failing that, banning membership for civil servants.

Rumors are circulated widely in Delhi that officials with access to government funds have helped finance Ananda Marga. According to the organization, financing comes from assessment of members—they must donate two per cent of their income—and "private contributions."

Friday in Parliament, a member of the ruling Congress party claimed that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency was behind the organization. The charge was carried on the front page of The Patriot, a daily newspaper published by the Communist Party of India.

Certainly the group is well-heeled. Located behind the New Delhi headquarters is the Ananda Press Plant, a printing firm owned by the organization. Another press is operated in Patna, Bihar, the group's headquarters. According to Oftedal, Ananda Marga owns "dozens" of other printing plants throughout India.

"We believe that literacy and information are important in educating the lower classes about the corruption and immorality of the Indian government," he said. The presses churn out dozens, if not hundreds, of different leaflets, circulars, pamphlets and newspapers. At the moment, most of them stress the alleged persecution of Sarkar and the claim that Indian intelligence officers poisoned him in his jail cell.

According to several of these publications, Sarkar has been so maltreated—confined to a cell without so much as a fan in 130 degrees temperatures, fed rotten food and deprived of medical attention—that he has been forced to go on a fast as a last resort. He reportedly has not eaten since the beginning of this month.

Just as the Communist and Congress Parties, which have operated as allies the last few years, are leading the current attacks on Ananda Marga, its greatest support comes from the right-wing, pro-Hindu Jana Sangh Party.

In the last few days, several government officials have drawn comparisons between Ananda Marga and Jana Sangh's parent organization, Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (National Self-Service Organization). RSS, as it is widely known, was founded some 25 years ago, around the time India won its independence from Britain. It is a broad-based, tightly disciplined Nazi-style organization which drills its uniformed university student members in self defense and the use of weapons.

A founder of both Jana Sangh and RSS, Shyama Prasad Mukherjee, died in 1951 in a Kashmir prison where, his followers claimed, he was poisoned to death.

Ananda Marga, according to Home Minister Dixit, is "much worse than RSS."

How bad is it? Even if it has 250,000 members in India—which it claims, but which is most unlikely—does it constitute a threat to the government? The answers, given by both the government and Ananda Marga, are yes and no.

The organization espouses a philosophy of "socio-economic-political-religious revolution" which it calls the progressive utilization theory or Prout. The so-called Proutist bloc has run candidates for the Central and Bihar state governments and at one time had a single member of Parliament.

Ananda Marga literature admits that much of Sarkar's teachings are "unfathomable" and that they require, at least, "a sustained effort and a highly developed intellect."

Nevertheless, in trying to capsule Prout for the ordinary man, one pamphlet says "it stands for guaranteeing minimum essentials of life to each and every individual. The essentials should go on increasing progressively with growing economy and growing wealth."

According to a New Delhi newspaperman, who is active in Ananda Marga, the theory is of immediate importance and applicability to India, "where the government is widely known to be corrupt and immoral and is actively courting the Communists."

Oftedal adds that it is also of immediate use in certain countries of Latin America and in the Philippines, where Ananda Marga claims to be particularly active. (A group spokesman in Manila said Friday that a "sacrificial death" by immolation was planned there.)

Prout is "not applicable, at this moment, in the United States," Oftedal says.

In a 35-page appeal to Amnesty International, the group said, "clearly, the CBI (Central Bureau of Investigation) and the government seem to be haunted by the fear of being thrown out of power by the rapidly rising moral and spiritual force" of Sarkar and Ananda Marga.

"Nonsense," says Minister of State for Home Affairs Ram Nivas Mirdha. "They are merely a gang of extremists and criminals and that is the way we are treating them. Sarkar is being treated the same as any other person charged with a murder conspiracy charge. No worse and no better."

For every Ananda Marga claim of pressure tactics, persecution, illegal detention and maltreatment, Mirdha has a logical and legal argument:

"The pressure they are feeling is because they are at loose ends without their leader. This shows how much of a dictator he is. His word is law to them.

"We are certainly not persecuting them. We classify them somewhere between a crank case and dangerous criminals. But we do not worry unduly about them.

"Sarkar is not being detained illegally. A magistrate has committed the case to the Bihar sessions court. The group has been allowed an extraordinary appeal to the Federal Supreme Court. This is pending. Bail has not been allowed because the Bihar court fears Sarkar will tamper with the evidence."

Maltreatment? Mirdha referred to a statement made by the Bihar government after Sarkar claimed he was poisoned on Feb. 12. The government said he was examined by a state physician and a cardiologist who found only that his blood pressure was "a little high" and that a claim of blindness turned out to be conjunctivitis, "for which drops and ointment were prescribed."

Yet, despite this cool logic, the answers do not quite reply to the questions. A foreign journalist who asked Mirdha if he could be given permission to visit Sarkar in jail was refused. "It is against the regulations" he said.

"ostensible object of propagating Yoga and "Anand Marg" philosophy. Prabhat Ranjan Sarkar, the founder of the Ananda Marga, is also known as "BABA" or "ANANDA MURTHIJI". He claims to be the incarnation of God, and his purpose is to establish a government of "moralists". He succeeded in persuading his followers to believe that he had supernatural powers and could liberate their souls. (X) 74

*2. Once the Anand Marg gained some popularity, it started dabbling in politics and advocated dictatorship of moralists which was to be achieved through violent means. One of its wings known as the Proutist Block of India (PBI) was registered with the Elections Commissioner. The organisation started a para-military cadre to give training in military drill, guerilla warfare etc., to its members. (X)

3. Secrecy and absolute loyalty are the most important features of the Ananda Marg movement. All those members who defected were declared enemies and their liquidation was ordered by "Baba". For this purpose a "Killer Squad" was formed. In March 1967, five such ex-followers were killed in the presence of P. R. Sarkar himself. In subsequent years also a number of dead bodies of ex-members were discovered. The investigations revealed that all the murders were ordered by the Anand Marg leader, P. R. Sarkar. Accordingly, in December 1971, Sarkar was arrested and he is being tried by the Indian courts. (X)

"4. Since 1968, Anand Marg started opening its branches in different countries in the guise of Yoga Societies, pre-school programmes and relief centres. Some of the foreign disciples were taken to India for indoctrination. The Anand Marg set its foot in the USA in 1971 when Acharya Yatishwarananda Avadhoot (alias) R. Venkatanarayan was sent to propagate Ananda Marga's philosophy. Acharya Yatishwarananda established his headquarters at Wichita, Kansas, State and registered the Ananda Marga Yoga Society of USA as a non-profit, non-religious organisation in the same year.

"5. Since its inception in USA, the Ananda Margis by Ach. Yatishwarananda are constantly engaged in anti-Indian propaganda. They have been agitating against the arrest of their spiritual leader P. R. Sarkar and have been asserting that he had been detained on illegal and false grounds with the object of suppressing the spiritual and social philosophy propagated by him. In March 1973, the American followers of the Ananda Marg organised a day long vigil in front of the United Nations and submitted a petition to the Secretary-General requesting him to exert his influence on the Government of India for the release of their leader, P. R. Sarkar. Similar vigils were maintained in front of the Indian Consulate, New York, and the Indian Embassy in Washington. They also approached other organisations such as the International League for the Rights of Man (USA), the Amnesty International and even some Senators to seek help for Sarkar's release without any trial. For this purpose, they also set up various cells such as "International Committee to obtain justice for Shri Shri Ananda Murthiji", "Baba's Release Committee", "P. R. Sarkar International Defence Committee" etc. (X)

"6. In June 1975, the Ananda Marga was banned in India. This made the followers of the Ananda Marg more bitter and violent against the Government of India. In August 1975, they again organised a protest rally in front of the Indian Embassy, Washington, and in front of the United Nations and it is learnt that they are now planning to organise vigils in front of the building occupied by the Indian Mission to the UN and the Indian Consulate General during August 1976 to protest against the prolonged detention of their leader. (X)

"7. The Ananda Marga all over the USA is run by a sectorial board which consists of the following persons. The nationality of these persons and the offices held by them are given, wherever known. (X)
